

Corn Condensed Distillers with Solubles

Corn Condensed Distillers with Solubles (Syrup) is a liquid based feed product that is golden yellow in color. This product is the liquid portion of an ethanol plants process that is condensed through evaporation to achieve a minimum of 25% solids. Syrup is a great product to use as an energy source, binder or dust suppression in feed rations. Ask a Dakota Ethanol representative about trucking services available and current freight quotes for tanker or belt deliveries.

Numerous studies have been preformed by several accredited Universities such as South Dakota State University, University of Nebraska, University of Iowa and University of Minnesota. If you are interested in additional information on where to find additional feed studies and research please let us know.